New York telephone operators vote to join NFWA strike.

IN WASHINGTON, Joseph A. Bierne, National Federation of Telephone Workers president, declared after Congress abandoned hope of enacting anti-strike legislation to head off the April 7 nationwide telephone walkout, "The way it looks now, the telephone strike is on." While a conciliation conference group, including Bierne, John J. Moran, NFWA vice-president; U. S. Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren and J. J. Crull, NFWA bargaining board chairman, failed to agree on the $12-a-week increase demand, New York City telephone operators voted to strike raising possibility that local as well as long-distance communication will be tied up. Mud Covers Streets After Thunderstorm

A violent thunderstorm swept Salem in the early hours this morning, flooding many basements and burying city streets under a coating of mud and silt.

Basements at the corner of E. State and Lincoln were flooded with water, which poured into the intersection too fast for sewers to carry it away. The entire area from the Salem News building to the Memorial building was coated with mud as much as six inches in places.

City workers were on the job early this morning shoveling away the majority of the mud, and later flushed the streets with fire hoses.

Car Occupant Killed

WOOSTER, April 5.—Edward Maurer, 65, died of a broken neck today in the crash of an automobile and a steel truck on Route 30 east of here. Maurer was a passenger in a car driven by Richard Shader, 22.

ZERO HOUR IN PHONE STRIKE DRAWS CLOSER

Conciliators Making Slow Progress In Attempt To Avert Tie-up

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—The government today redoubled its efforts to beat the deadline for a coast-to-coast telephone strike Monday by mediating the dispute without seizure of the industry.

Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren and John W. Gibson, assistant secretary of labor, still hoped to duplicate their feat of last year when they brought off a settlement just 25 minutes before a nationwide walkout of telephone workers was due to begin.

The contract negotiations between the Independent National Federation of Telephone Workers and the Bell system involve directly 287,000 members of 39 unions. But the NFWA expects possibly 340,000 workers to go out if the strike develops as scheduled at 6 a. m. in each time zone Monday.

Separate Conferences Held
Government conciliators here stepped up their talks involving two of the American Telephone and Telegraph company's biggest and most important units.

These are the long lines division, which handles the long distance operations of the Bell system, and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

While the conciliators worked with union and company representatives in private conferences, Gibson turned to ZERO HOUR, Page 8

Concert Association To Hold Membership Drive April 14-19

Headquarters for the membership campaign of the Northern Columbiana County Concert association will be held in the lobby of the Metzger hotel during the week of April 14 to April 19, Charles F. Fox, secretary of the organization, reported today.

Every day from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., a staff of volunteers will be on hand to receive reports from the corps of workers being organized by Mrs. E. E. Dyball and Mrs. Vesta King, co-chairmen of the campaign, to enroll members in the association.

Telephone 6994 is being installed at the headquarters so that the campaign officials may obtain daily news of the drive's progress.

Dues received from members of the association, Fox explained, will be pooled at the close of the campaign on Saturday, April 19, for the purpose of engaging artists for the all-star series of concerts to be presented by the organization during the coming months.

Mrs. Dyball stressed that the membership is open to every resident of Salem and northern Columbiana county. Applications, however, must be made on a seasonal basis during the campaign week, either through one of the membership committee or at the headquarters.

No more memberships for the 1947-48 season can be accepted after the drive ends, nor can single tickets be sold for any of the individual concerts, Mrs. Dyball said, explaining that the artist budget must be based on the number of members enrolled in the campaign week.

The artists for the minimum of three concerts promised by the association will be selected by the officers and board of directors from a comprehensive list embracing virtually all the world's well-known opera, radio and concert singers, instrumental and orchestral, vocal and dance ensembles.

Salem Churches Prepare To Open Doors To Easter Worshipers Sunday

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

With the dawn of Easter Sunday morning tomorrow, hundreds of Salem church-goers will find their way to places of worship, because Easter is a spiritual festival.

Again will be told the most sensational story of the ages, delivered by the angels to devout women and the disciples of Jesus Christ who came to His empty tomb on that first Easter morning. "He is not here; for He is risen, as He said."

This message which brings hope of immortality to all followers of Jesus, will form the nucleus for the special sermons and songs arranged by the churches.

Sunrise Service At 7
Highlighting the day's activities is the union Sunrise service at 7 a. m. in the First Presbyterian church, arranged by young people of the Baptist, Christian, Nazarene, Presbyterian and Methodist churches for anyone interested.

Special music will be featured with sermons on "Crucifixion" and "The Resurrection" by Lucy E. Huston and William L. Parks.

Other Sunrise services are announced by the Holy Trinity Lutheran church at 8:30 a. m., with a playlet, "The Easter Victory," and a breakfast at 7:30, and the Emmanuel Lutheran church which holds its biggest service of the day at 7 a. m. There will be special music by the Girls chorus, directed by Mrs. W. J. Seeman, and the observance of the Lord's supper.

A group from the First Friends church will attend a sunrise service at 7 a. m. in Quaker Canyon, Damascus, sponsored by the young people of Friends churches in this district.

Dedication of children will be featured at the morning worship service at the First Friends church and the choir will give an Easter cantata at 7:30 p. m.

New members will be received and the rite of baptism administered at the worship service at the Methodist church. Easter music will be featured.

Two Presbyterian Services
In order that the congregation may worship without the discomfort of crowding, two identical services have been scheduled at 9 and 10:45 a. m. in the Presbyterian church.

Members of Salem commandery, Knights Templar, will attend the second service in a body.

Solemn masses will be held at St. Paul's Catholic church at the regular hours, 6, 7:30, 9 and 11 a. m., with the pastor, Rev. Fr. J. Richard Gaffney, celebrant; Father Cyril Fisher of Chicago, as deacon, and Rev. Fr. William Appell, assistant pastor, sub-deacon.

Good Friday Rites Held
Several hundred people attended the Good Friday community service yesterday from noon until 3 o'clock in the Methodist church.

The service was sponsored by the Salem Ministerial association and seven ministers had part on the program.

The organizers were Homer S. Taylor, Mrs. Robert Hammel and Mrs. Ruth Berry.

Local Preparations Made for Phone Tieup

Should the nation-wide telephone strike become more than a threat Monday morning, service for the Salem branch office subscribers will be maintained as nearly on a "business as usual" basis as is possible. Everything that can be done to maintain service is already arranged here.

Cots and a sizeable food supply have been stored in the Ohio Bell Telephone office here for use if needed by the 11 supervisory employees who would not be affected by a union walkout.

If the strike materializes these 11 persons will immediately step into pre-assigned jobs doing the tasks usually assigned to other employees.

The abbreviated staff will, of course, be limited in its ability to serve and consequently, as was the case in previous strikes, the public will be asked to refrain from using phones for calls which necessitate the services of an operator.

Local dial calls will continue as usual, but long distance or information calls will be out, unless an emergency reason prompts a call.

In previous strikes the office here has received a number of inquiries as to whether or not the dial system is useable. Local calls may be dialed as usual.

Chinese Attackers Kill 5 U. S. Marines, Wound 16

(By Associated Press)
PEIPING, April 5.—Five U. S. Marines were killed and 16 wounded by armed Chinese in a four-hour battle at a Marine ammunition dump near Tangku today. Chinese military officers said the attackers, whom they identified as Communists, suffered 100 casualties.

The Chinese officers said documents removed from the bodies of slain attackers showed positively they were Communists.

These officers announced that 600 government troops from Chiang Kai-shek's Second army had been dispatched from Tientsin to aid Marines in tracking down the attackers, whose numbers were not known.

Even as the attackers faded into the darkness from which they had struck at a Marine ammunition dump, a heavily-armed Marine convoy was made ready at Tientsin, 25 miles to the west, to set out in pursuit.

Stung by the biggest casualty toll in a long series of clashes with North China irregulars, Col. Julian N. Frisbie, commander of the Fifth Marines at Peiping, was flying to Tientsin to take personal command.

Brought Under Control After 5-Hour Fight

This city's worst fire in at least four years gutted the basement and sanctuary of the First Baptist church, E. State st. and S. Lincoln ave., early this morning. A $60,000 organ was destroyed.

A smoldering blaze, apparently originating in the under-structure of the choir loft at the southern section of the brick edifice, whipped through the basement section, ate up through the choir loft floor and followed a hot air duct north through the sanctuary.

Rev. Robert J. Hunter, pastor of the church, was unable to estimate the damage, but it was unofficially placed at around $25,000. The building and church equipment was insured for $13,500. C. V. Williams, chairman of the board of trustees, said.

The western wing of the building, which contains Sunday school rooms, a prayer meeting room, a kitchen and storage space was undamaged by the fire, but smoke and water damage was severe.

The brick building, the interior of which was of wooden construction, was erected in 1889 and is one of the city's landmarks.

There was considerable speculation among Baptist church leaders today that the old building now would have to be torn down. The church has been adding to a building fund for a number of years, but plans had never materialized.

Plan Services In High School
The church's Easter services tomorrow will be held in the High school auditorium, Rev. Hunter announced.

Baptismal services for 20 new members will be held in the Christian church at 7:30 Sunday evening. The fire ruined elaborate Easter decorations in the church which had been prepared for the last three days by George Talbot.

The fire was discovered shortly before 6 a. m. today by a truck driver whose name was not obtained. He stopped in the nearby Slip and Bite restaurant and told people there he had noticed "an awful lot of smoke around that church on the corner."

The people in the place ran into the street and investigated, and a waitress called the fire department. Firemen said the blaze was well under way when they arrived and said the intense smoke was clinging around the building in huge clouds. They fought the fire for about five hours.

Fight Fire From Basement
Unable to make their way into the building by the front entrance on E. State st., firemen took hoses down into an outside basement entrance at the rear.

From there they played water into the burning cellar and up into the sanctuary.

Fire Captain James Hinkle, serving in the absence of Chief Vincent Malloy, who is ill, said the smoke was "nearly unbearable" and seemed to cling to the building.

Air vents which opened into the basement on the E. State st. side of the building caused a draft which aided the progress of the blaze.

The organ console, which was situated near the front of the choir loft beside the pulpit, crashed into the basement when the floor gave way. The remains of the organ could not be located among the debris piled high in the water-filled basement.

The fire ate a wide path straight up the middle of the sanctuary, causing the floor to collapse into the basement, carrying with it many pews.

Supplies Recovered
Church supplies, hymnals and records were found to be in fair condition, although somewhat damaged by the heat and water.

A history of the church, written some years ago by a late member, was scorched by flames but was still legible.

Truman Will Address Jefferson Day Dinners

WASHINGTON, April 5.—President Truman makes his first political speech tonight since the Republicans took over congress.

Party members guessed that he will furnish them with some ammunition for the 1948 campaign without mentioning his own future intentions.

The occasion is the annual $100-a-plate Jefferson Day dinner, which supplants the Jackson Day dinners the late President Roosevelt frequently used for important political announcements. The dinner is a 2,000-ticket, $200,000 sell-out.

Mr. Truman is expected to confine his remarks to sketching the Democratic party's program as he sees it, without any open assault on the Republicans which could be interpreted as breaching the two-way cooperation he has urged between the White House and congress on legislative matters.

First The Foundation

The state Senate has passed the Daniels-Cramer bill to raise Ohio school standards. The House will open hearings on the bill in a few days.

The bill's purpose is to modernize Ohio's school foundation law, which was passed in 1935 to establish a financial floor under the public school system. It is more than a salary relief measure. That happens to be the aspect of greatest immediate interest because of current agitation to raise schoolteachers' pay.

The long-range effect of passing the Daniels-Cramer bill in anything like the form approved by the Senate would be the continued improvement of public school standards. This cannot be done without the more adequate financing which the bill makes possible.

The principle of state standards for public-school education was established in 1912 under Governor Cox. Before that time, public schools were run on a catch-as-catch-can basis. For a third of a century, Ohio's schools have been getting better. The Daniels-Cramer bill in 1947 is merely the means of assuring their continued improvement by allocating a larger share of state funds.

Reopening The Mines

Secretary Krug's order closing 518 coal mines will have two salutary effects:

First, and most important, it will help correct hazards in and help prevent a repetition of last week's Centralia disaster.

Second, it will assure the reopening of the 2,013 remaining mines next Monday if their operators certify they can be operated safely and if John L. Lewis doesn't change his mind before then. There had been reports that the "mourning period" would be extended until safety conditions were reviewed at all the nation's mines.

The fact that 518 mines will remain closed indicates that there is laxity in inspection procedure. If the mines are unsafe now, they were unsafe last week.

The Lillenthal Issue

The handling of the Lillenthal issue in the U. S. Senate suggests that atomic energy is too big for most of the officials now on deck.

Unless they grow up suddenly to the responsibility which atomic fission has thrust upon them, the famous A-bomb may be the least of our troubles.

There were bigger fish to fry in the Lillenthal matter than the fish that got into the pan. The spectacle of Lillenthal's cheering section trying to out-holler Tennessee's McKellar is enough to make a conscientious patriot get the screaming meemies.

David E. Lillenthal is not an indispensable man, but just another lawyer who came to Washington with the New Deal. Because he is known as a special pleader for public ownership of power sources, he shouldn't have been appointed to the chairmanship of the Atomic Energy Commission. But Mr. Truman did appoint him, and that should have been the signal for a showdown on the ax he was grinding. Instead, we have had McKellar and hoorah and propaganda and communist witch-hunting.

Atomic fission is the ultimate source of physical power on earth. In 25 years it probably will be what petroleum is today—the key to military power, social advancement, the machine age, political control.

The issue is whether this source of energy is going to be reserved to the state through absolute public ownership and control, or whether it is going to be turned over to private enterprise under rules laid down and enforced by the state.

Lillenthal stands for public ownership. He made his record in TVA. The reason he is being resisted is because there still are a great many Americans who challenge the right of the state to compete with its own citizens in fields where it has no right to be.

We think atomic energy, once the hysteria about the A-bomb has subsided, is going to be a field in which the state has no right to be.

Uncle Sam, Trustee

With Russia thoughtfully fingering its veto gun but deciding not to use it, the United Nations has delegated to the United States trusteeship over the Pacific islands which once spearheaded the Japanese attack.

A trusteeship might be described as baby-sitting on a global scale. To Uncle Sam is delegated authority to oversee the welfare and protection of a large portion of what ethnologists call Oceania. Under United States supervision comes a wide assortment of palm-fringed islands and atolls, some uninhabited, others peopled by natives of varying degrees of intelligence, from the savages of Melanesia to the Polynesians with their skills and native culture.

The United States, which was the principal force in wresting these islands from the Japanese, is the logical recipient of this trusteeship. While they may have wondered why they were worth fighting for at the time, a couple of million Pacific veterans would have questioned the efficacy of a U. N. which placed the islands in the care of any other nation.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, April 6

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most felicitous one, with all indications for an exceptionally happy state of affairs, possibly in celebration of an outstanding social, domestic or artistic event, in which the affections and finer emotions are emphasized.

There is danger of going to extremes in this pleasant pursuit, with probably more outlay of funds and energies than is discreet.

Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of most happy, pleasant and profitable experiences, in which the affectional, domestic, cultural and creative qualities may give much gratification and fulfilled aspirations.

In a more prosaic way success, and realistic ambitions should flourish, although there may be great temptation to excess, extravagance and overdoing with energies and resources.

A child born on this day will be richly endowed with social, artistic and romantic talents, fitting it for a happy and creative career. A trend to excess or extravagance should be given early direction.

For Monday, April 7

Monday's astrological forecast is for an exceedingly active, exciting, profitable and productive day, with all affairs moving definitely into constructive and expansive grooves.

Bright ideas, plus initiative and vim, backed up by quick grasp of opportunities should advance all lines, where good work and sound techniques pay gratifying dividends. But be ready for change, suggestions from higher ups, whose aid is essential. Joint efforts may advance subtle ambitions or plans.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively, exciting and productive year, in which the energies, impulses and emotions may move into high gear, probably through the financial cooperation of influential persons, impressed by brilliant plans and ideas, worked out with ingenuity, skill and practical techniques.

Be shrewd in gaining a solid footing, before taking too great chances in putting over deals of major importance to self and partners.

A child born on this day is solidly equipped with ability, skill, initiative and good sense for attaining major position or influence, and in a big way. Its bright mentality and creative ingenuity will support of desired promoters and friendly interests.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Treating A Case of Sprue

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SPRUE is a disease which has been known for centuries but it is only in the last few years that its true nature has been understood.

According to Drs. Samuel J. Shane and Vern F. Deyke of Montreal studies made in 1935 showed for the first time that sprue is in the same general class of diseases as is pernicious anemia. That is, it is caused by lack of a certain substance the body needs in order to function properly. It was also found that, as in pernicious anemia, liver extract contains the needed material.

The Missing Substance

In sprue the missing substance is one which gives the body its ability to use fat. When it is not present fat cannot be absorbed, but is excreted in the stools.

Other effects of sprue include a loss in weight, anemia, or lessening of the coloring matter in the blood, and diarrhea. The acid in the stomach may also be less than normal. Usually X-ray examination will show certain changes in the lining membrane of the small intestine.

The diet used for this condition is one which is rich in protein and carbohydrates, without any fat. At the beginning of treatment, it is sometimes necessary to give what are known as protein hydrolysates by injection. These are water solutions of the amino acids or building blocks of which proteins are made. Sugar solutions such as glucose may also be given by injection into a vein if necessary.

As Treatment Continues

As treatment continues, the bowel may begin to regain its ability to take up small quantities of fat. At this time fats in limited amounts may be added to the diet.

Since studies have shown that liver extract is of the greatest importance in supplying the material that is deficient in the body, it is administered in adequate amounts, just as in the treatment of pernicious anemia.

Since fats are not taken up from the bowel in cases of sprue, it is also likely that the vitamins which are soluble in fats will also be lacking because they too are not taken up by the body. These include vitamins A, D and K. Hence, these vitamins must be injected into a muscle at least until the bowel regains its ability to take up the fats which contain them. When the patient's condition improves to this extent, the vitamins may be administered by mouth.

Sprue is not a difficult condition to diagnose and with the treatment outlined it usually responds promptly.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

"HE IS RISEN" "He is not here: Behold the place where they laid him."—St. Mark 16:6.

A Lenten Message

By Rev. Harry Barrett, Church of Our Saviour

There is no possible way for man to surmount the great crises of life except through the hope, and the comfort, and the courage, which stem from his religion.

It may be something not daily acknowledged: It may be something quite different from the formulated statement of the theologian; but once man stands in awesome silence in the midst of great trial or sorrow; unless he can somehow capture the vision of the soul's victory he is of all men most pitiable.

That is why Pilate "washing his hands" of Christ's crucifixion is so far removed from the Centurian whose words have heartened the ages, "Truly, this was the Son of God." That is why the words of the seers—"His friends stole His body away," have never reached the heart of the world as an explanation of the empty tomb. That is why men of all creeds, and no creed, are found in the throngs of worshippers crowding the churches on Easter Morn.

They love to hear, and long to believe, the Angel's announcement "He is not here; but is risen." The church, whatever its shortcomings, is the one agency with potential power sufficient to cure all the ills of the world. It is God's chosen agency for the redemption of mankind. We can retard its progress by our indifference. We can weaken it by our selfishness. We can not thwart it, nor can we get on without it. We are the beneficiaries and the product of its ministering Grace.

All that is most valued in our civilization has sprung from it. Therefore, to be unresponsive to its demands; to fail in our loyalty to it; is something unworthy of the sons of God.

Do we truly wish a new world? We can help toward its advent by presenting ourselves at God's Altar on Easter day, and dedicating ourselves to His purpose as made known to us through His Son.

Solving Our Problems

Power of Christ's Resurrection

By James Alexander Scott

We cannot explain this power, any more than we can explain any power in the Universe, electric power, atomic energy, we know, but do not fully understand.

Our greatest discoveries in the next one hundred years will be in the Spiritual realm. Education of the spirit has not kept pace with mental and material education.

Spiritual failure is impossible in the man who truly can say, "I live, and yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."

We cannot explain the power, but it is there, it is available and we all may have this resurrection power by obedience to the conditions through which it can be given.

No power is available unless we meet the conditions. Here lies our real problem, concerning spiritual power. "I have been down deep in the hell of moral failure," writes one, "and by the grace and power of God, I have come out of it." I may not be able to explain His power to the satisfaction of others; but will others explain me to my own? Our lives may be the living evidence of this power. The world asks no more, the world of men and women will accept no less.

Our day we are told, has ceased to believe in such miracles; it were truer to say that it has ceased to believe in anything else. Therefore, goodness is possible in this world; and not to achieve it is to defeat the purpose for which we were born into this world.

Let us believe in goodness; it is really more thrilling than badness; let us learn to love goodness because it is goodness. Any man who is putting out all his strength in work and prayer need have no devil fear that his strength will not be equal to his day.

He may not be able to choose his circumstances; but he can show that he, under God, and not the circumstances; is the master.

After all it is not so much more knowledge that we need, but more power to use the knowledge we have. Much of our unrest today only means that we want to know more than the silent and wise God sees fit to tell us.

The problems of the universe and the perplexities and heartaches which come out of our attempts to reconcile much that we know and see, with the rule of an Almighty, an all-wise and faithful God, these will be here long after we are gone.

We must take the Lord of the Resurrection at His word, when He says "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter."

To say that the power of the Resurrection of Christ cannot be measured now is not to say that it cannot be measured at all. Do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with God and our life will not only come out all right at the end, it will come out right all the way.

The answer to this problem is, to learn to labor and to wait. I am sure that, given time, right always comes to its own; and all wrong sooner or later spells defeat and disaster.

Let us trust the Risen Christ, and we shall be taught to regard the troubles that test us, and the limitations that perplex us, as the agents of His Providence, through the experiences of time.

Let us go on doing the highest and the best we can. The reward may not seem to be today, nor yet tomorrow; but we shall ultimately see that it was every day, and all the way, when we look back upon it from the shores of the Life Eternal.

The God of Truth and Love Makes every age an onward stage And has since time began; Sing Ye praises, Oh, sing praises God has a glorious plan."

Second More Than 30 Teams Expected In Salem Cage Event

Guessing

By DON E. BEATTIE
News Sports Editor

CANINE DEPARTMENT

One of the top features of the district's dog show competition comes off in Youngstown Sunday when the Mahoning-Shenango Kennel club gives its annual all-breed show at Stambaugh auditorium.

J. C. Harshman, an active member of the Columbiana County Kennel club, will serve in the capacity of chief steward.

There are at least 430 entries listed, including 63 cockers, 30 collies, 22 bulldogs, 16 Chihuahuas, 12 Scotties, 12 dachshunds, 11 Boston, 10 Pekingese, 10 Pomeranians and 11 Shetland sheepdogs.

DEPARTMENT OF CONJECTURE

Coach Johnny Cabas of Columbiana has received as many as six offers of basketball coaching jobs from Class A schools slightly larger than Columbiana, but to date hasn't said "yes" to any of the bidders.

Cabas' over-all record, besides winning of the Class B crown this year, is good enough reason for the offers, but this corner will make a guess that the youthful Mount grad will stick with Columbiana.

In the first place John likes to handle football as well as basketball and has proven his ability at the grid game while at Clippertown. His place there, of course, is probably open for a long time to come—and here's a guess that he'll stick right with it.

ANSWER TO COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT

Numerous inquiries have arrived regarding the selection of an All-County basketball team by The News this season. The project hasn't been forgotten. The team will appear in the Monday issue.

Because of the unusually fine representation this county has had in the cage ranks this season, choosing a team from the top calibre players wasn't an easy task.

Columbiana county, mainly through the fine tournament record of Class B Columbiana and Class A East Liverpool and the exceptional record posted by Salem, has been tabbed Ohio's "basketball capital" by news service writers.

DIAMOND DUST DEPT.

With the opener in Cleveland, between the Tribe and the Chicago White Sox slated for April 15, things in Tucson and vicinity are looking up at times and like past years down at other times.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians has two new outfielders on the squad list and both seem promising. Joe Frazier is one of the new gardeners and George (The Cat) Metkovich is the other.

The Cat arrived via the cash on the line system from the Boston Red Sox camp and reports from Tribal center have it that he looks like an answer to the worried manager's prayers.

Frazier, on the other hand, surprised the press representatives in the south by hopping right into the pitchers in a method that promises some potent sweat power.

He's a current safe bet now to be in a starting berth regardless of who else is around—if he keeps up his pace.

Plump Pat Seery, however, still holds the candle for swatting in those runs. He has laced across 32

Kelley Receives Flood Of Late Tournament Entries

A brilliant galaxy of basketball stars and top-notch teams are scheduled to appear in the Memorial building next week when Joe Kelley holds his 13th annual Invitation basketball tournament.

With the entry list being swelled daily, Kelley expects more than 30 teams to be registered by midnight tonight—the deadline. The majority of the teams traditionally submit their team lists on the final day.

Twenty teams actually paid entry fees or had indicated that they will do so, on or before Friday. Many more, including several teams from Salem are expected to file entries today.

Play in the tournament will begin Monday night, Kelley said, following a drawing of the team positions in 25 games—not bad, even with the KO record he also holds.

ODDS AND ENDS

Joe Kelley, Ben Barrett and Frank Tarr are planning to attend the Cleveland Browns football clinic in Cleveland May 2 and 3. . . . Johnny Cabas of Columbiana, Bud Bucher and Jack Mills of Lisbon and Joe Fortunato of Leetonia will also be on hand. . . . Despite rumors to the contrary, the opener in Cleveland April 15 is not sold out. . . . As of Monday 30,000 tickets had been sold for the big stadium.

The Indians, incidentally, are no longer located (officially) at League park. . . . The club offices are now in the stadium, telephone PR 7453. . . . No word has come back this way from the baseball gang (Sam Fridon, George Drakulich, Walt Brian, Mel Wukotich and Kirby Laughlin) who took off last Sunday for the South and a chance with the Wilkes-Barre minor league club. . . . No news may be good news. . . . Only 2,117 fans attended the start of the pro cage playoffs in Cleveland Wednesday night when the Rebels whipped the New York Knickerbockers 77-51. . . . It looks like the first and last year of pro ball at the Arena. . . . A group of softball representatives are planning to call on city council in two weeks to ask for either lights or enough ball diamonds. . . . The time prompts the action. . . . Games can't be run off as in past years.

Salem United Tool & Die, which includes High School Coach Bob Miller, Frances Lannoy, Tony Martinelli, Dick Treleven, and possibly Charles "Mutt" Schaeffer, who is due to return from the Army early next week. Schaeffer was outstanding in the tourney here last year.

Sebring Lyles Sport Shop. . . . East Canton O'Hara's, including Class B All-Ohio Bob Werley. . . . Salem Printz club. . . . Parma, with former All-Ohio George Rung, who starred with Miami and Great Lakes. . . . Canton Cal's Place, featuring popular Bob Fryer and another All-Ohio luminary, Dick Heddleston.

Salem Todd's News Agency. . . . Youngstown Vienna Scotts Service, which is the Youngstown college varsity, with the possible addition of Leo Mogus. . . . Warren Coaches, led by Lisbon's Jack Mills, with All-Ohio Larry Imburgia and veteran Ray Sweeney. . . . Farrell Scholastics. . . . Sharpsville, the defending champions of the tourney, which they copped last year under the name of Karpoo-Russ of Sharon. The team features the Magula brothers.

Other teams which have indicated they will enter include East Liverpool's varsity squad, and Columbiana, which will have most of the state championship combine playing.

The Salem AMVETS, local champs, have not yet indicated their entry.

Eddie Proves He Can Play Baseball Despite Leg Loss

A group of about 30 boys from St. Paul's school gathered Friday morning for a baseball game. The importance of the occasion was evident when Mrs. William J. Chaplow of 629 Perry st. drove up in front of the school and dropped off her son, Eddie, 12, who was to take part in the game.

Eddie is the young former Salem News carrier who had his left leg amputated in the Cleveland Clinic Feb. 6, following a bone infection.

He was enthusiastically greeted by his former schoolmates, from whom he has been separated for more than two months. A center of attraction today was the big "league" baseball which Eddie received from Cleveland Indians President Bill Veeck, while in the hospital.

Eddie's efforts at baseball, despite his handicap are not at all bad. He plays without the use of crutches and is said to be a pretty fair batter. He needs only a teammate to run bases for him.

Of late Eddie received $36 more in cash from his former customers on the paper route. This latest contribution came from people living on Pershing st., Penn ave. and Columbia st., near S. Lincoln. Eddie had previously received $98 and a radio from other former customers.

He has been spending a lot of time listening to his radio and making ship and airplane models. He received a letter from Veeck this week, inviting him to stop and see the Indian prexy when he again goes to Cleveland. The invite also included a ball game at the Cleveland Stadium.

Eddie expects to return to school at St. Paul's soon.

M'KECHNIE SAYS TRIBE PITCHERS LACK HEADWORK

Will Try To Educate Some On Value Of Curves Over Pure Speed

(By Associated Press)
PHOENIX, Ariz., April 5.—Deacon Bill McKechnie, Cleveland Indians coach and peerless professor of pitching, believes the Tribe's hurlers will achieve pennant-contending effectiveness when they start "using their heads."

"There's been nothing seriously wrong with most of the boys," McKechnie said yesterday after the Redskins' bat-battered mound corps fell apart again to give the New York Giants a 10-6 slugging victory in an exhibition tilt.

Excepting Bob Feller and some of the other Tribe front-liners, McKechnie asserted certain Indians hurlers "have been experimenting openly and some of them haven't been using their heads."

"We've had too many fast ball exhibitions. The fellows must learn that a curve is a pretty good pitch to throw in a tough spot," the veteran coach added, before scheduling a "skull session" for the Tribe's mound staff.

MIDDLECOFF TOPS MASTERS' FIELD

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5.—A group of veteran campaigners battled young Cary Middlecoff for the lead today in the 11th annual Masters Golf tournament.

Only one of them, however—Jimmy Demaret—was able to equal his halfway score of 140 to lead the field with a one-stroke margin into today's third round.

Middlecoff yesterday posted a three-under-par 69 in the $10,000 event.

Behind them at 141 were Jom Ferrer of Chicago, who had 71; Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Texas, with 72, and Toney Penna of Cincinnati, 70.

Next with 142 were Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y.; Horton Smith of Detroit; Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del.; Lawson Little of Cleveland, O.; and Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

The day's lowest round and best for this meeting was Ben Hogan's 68, recorded with a pair of 34s—two under par on each side.

Tied at 143 with Hogan were Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va.; Harold McSpaden of Sanford, Me.; George Schou of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Johnny Palmer of Radin, N. C.; and Henry Picard of Cleveland.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo had a score of 73-72-145 and Joe McDonauld of Hamilton, O., 85-80-165.

'Roughometer' Tames Bumps In Roads

RICHMOND, Va.—Rough going, you say? How rough? Just ask the Virginia highway department if you want the answer on a particular stretch of highway. A "roughometer" is being trailed behind highway trucks to record the various bumps and depressions in the road surface and their effect on riding comfort. The "roughometer" records them and they can be marked with paint for smoothing out.

through the devastated southern end of the building, also found an envelope containing a list of donors who gave for the installation of the comparatively new organ on April 9, 1939. The list was slightly burned, but was legible.

The cause of the fire is undetermined, but firemen and church officials said it probably was caused by one of three things:

An unidentified man told of being knocked nearly to the ground by a bolt of lightning at about 5:15 a. m. today as he was walking on S. Lincoln ave., near the church. He said he believed the bolt, which occurred during a sudden storm, might have struck the church.

No evidences of lightning damage were found on the outside of the building, Capt. Hinkle said, but added that the bolt might have followed a course down the electric wires into the building.

A. L. Fisher, church custodian, said a gas unit which heats water in the baptistry might have been extinguished by water which flooded the cellar after the rain. He thought the escaping gas fumes might have been exploded by the nearby coal furnace.

Defective wiring in the organ equipment also might have started the blaze.

The fire department, which utilized its two largest trucks, laid approximately 1,500 feet of two and one half inch hose.

The Baptist church congregation totals 660 people. The Baptist denomination was formed in Salem in 1809.

son and Warren called a separate meeting with A. T. & T. Vice President C. F. Craig.

G. S. Dring, assistant vice president of the A. T. & T. said "no progress was made toward settlement" in yesterday's discussion "although several offers and counteroffers were made by both parties."

Attorney General Tom Clark gave President Truman an opinion yesterday that the industry could be seized under the federal communications act but an official close to the situation said flatly that seizure has so far received no serious consideration.

Big Question Unanswered

The telephone lines will be taken over only after the strike begins—if it does—and then only if that seems the way to bring order to the situation, this official asserted.

If the walkout comes, it will be the nation's first cross-country communications strike.

President Joseph A. Beirne of the NFW, which is independent of the AFL and CIO, challenged the Clark opinion, but left unanswered the $64 question:

Will the union work for the government even after seizure?

"If seizure is decided upon," Beirne said, "we will then determine what action is to be taken."

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 5—It's hard to put on paper the sense of awareness and of life a man gets from living and working in Washington.

Men who work here, particularly newspapermen, talk a lot about it and here is a story which one of them tells, trying to explain it. Back home, in the city where I worked, I had a pretty good job, and a lot of friends. The future seemed all right. Nothing changed much.

What happened to my friends or neighbors or the people I knew seemed very important and very close.

Things that happened elsewhere seemed a little more vague, a little less real.

I guess a model citizen should be intensely interested in everything that happens anywhere.

I wouldn't know. I'm only trying to tell you how it was with me and what happened to me.

Take the U. S. Supreme court, for example.

It might make a decision that would deeply affect me and my neighbors back home and maybe change the course of our lives.

I'd know it was important. I could see why. Still, it was hard for me to make it come alive.

I had never seen the court, or the nine justices, and somehow what they did seemed remote even though it touched me.

Or take congress. Often I'd get confused or angry trying to follow what it did day by day. I know now some of the anger was justified.

And when congressmen wrangled, I'd say: "They're just like the politicians here at home." And, of course, they are.

So, a little numb to everything that happened outside my own city or my own state, I came to Washington. I began to change.

I began to think in terms that were wider than the outskirts of a city or the borders of a state. I couldn't help it.

I wasn't here long before I had the tremendous sense of life that comes from being in the middle of action that is changing lives, my own included.

The President, congress, the Supreme court, the government departments with their hundreds of thousands of people, and the whole thing moving, pulling, tugging, thinking, acting.

Back home I had prejudices, the same my friends and neighbors had. We grew up with them. Some of them got softened up here, or washed away.

Why? Because there were people here from everywhere in the United States. They may have brought prejudices with them. But not mine.

Some of mine seemed silly to them. Some of theirs seemed dumb to me. Our prejudices rubbed against one another and were worn away a bit.

For the first time I had a sense of the whole country because the whole country was represented here.

Sure enough. The congressmen, a lot of them, were just local politicians who had graduated to the big school.

At times the best of them still thought in local terms, doing favors for the home folks, trying to get favors for their city or their state.

But most of the time they had to think of the whole country, of workers, businessmen, teachers, children, old people, rich and poor, the whole surging mass that makes up America. They had to act for them.

What happened in congress every day was changing, a little here and a little there, the direction of America.

Close up I could understand better, and with intense interest, the wrangling, the delays and the arguments in congress.

Here were men from everywhere, trying to work out problems affecting us all by yielding a little and demanding a little, wrangling, shouting, talking, voting, thinking, choosing up sides.

And beating through all the words and actions of today is the realization there'll be more tomorrow, maybe more important, far-reaching things to be handled as they rock along on the tide history.

Detectives Investigate Death of Embassy Worker

WASHINGTON, April 5—Investigation into the mystery death of Miss Wynona Harvey, 25, turned to New York today where Arlington, Va., detectives sought to question a business man described as an acquaintance of the comely Philippine embassy secretary.

Miss Harvey was found dead in a small creek in Arlington county, just across the Potomac river from Washington.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

Three Women Burned In Washington Dorm Fire

WASHINGTON, April 5—Three women were burned at least one critically, in a fire which routed several hundred night-clad government girls from their dormitory in West Potomac park early today.

Emergency hospital listed the injured as:

Mrs. Clara Briggs, 58, Wellesley, Mass.
Sadie Gordon, 25, Vandergrift, Pa.
Cornelia Mayr, 57, Falls Church, Va.

All suffered second and third degree burns and hospital attaches said that Miss Mayr's condition was critical. Miss Gordon's condition was reported good. There was no immediate report on Mrs. Briggs.

Firemen said the fire apparently started from a cigarette in the "P" wing of Alcott hall, normally occupied by 450 women. They estimated that because of the Easter holiday only about 300 were in the hall.

Plymouth Car Prices Dropped By Chrysler

DETROIT, April 5—Price reductions ranging from $25 to $55 on Plymouth passenger automobiles were announced today by Chrysler Corp.

Plymouth thus becomes the second leading car maker to announce price slashes this year, the Ford Motor Co. having previously reduced the listings on its Ford line from $15 to $50.

Loses Leg In Crash

IRONTON, April 5—Her right leg amputated by surgeons yesterday, Mary June Hughes, 19, still was in critical condition today from injuries suffered when the motorcycle she was riding Thursday night, crashed into a coal car of a Norfolk & Western switch-train here.

Paul Fletcher, 23, owner of the motorcycle, also was injured.

Easter Parades Loom For Most of Nation

(By Associated Press)
Easter parades over most of the nation will be held without cooperation from the weather.

Milady's new frock will be covered by winter furs in many cities and umbrellas will be necessary in some sections to protect spring bonnets.

A white Easter was a certainty in Montana and the Dakotas. Seven inches of snow fell yesterday at Miles City, Mont., and five inches at Williston, N. Dak.

Generally, the Easter forecast called for cloudy skies and below normal temperature.

Rain was predicted for the southern New England states, and along the coast of Washington and Oregon. Sunny weather was expected, however, in Florida, the Gulf states, lower Mississippi valley, lower Plains states and through most of the Pacific states and western plateau region.

Rain which started last night in eastern Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and lower Michigan moved eastward today but was expected to be over by Sunday morning.

In Chicago, a three-inch rainfall was recorded in a 12-hour period Friday night and Saturday morning.

Did you know that if one of your wheels is as little as one-eighth inch out of line, your tire is dragged sideways approximately 85 feet in every mile? It is easy to see from this fact, how much unnecessary wear your tires receive if your wheels are out of line.

Faulty wheel alignment, like faulty brakes, also makes driving hazardous. Play safe—drive in today and let us check your wheel alignment with our Bennett-Ferguson Chassis Analyzer. In a matter of minutes we can give you accurate, visual proof of the exact alignment condition of your wheels.
